

About the Conference

The 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development, adopted by all United Nations Member States in 2015, provides a shared blueprint for peace and prosperity for people and the planet, now and into the future. At its heart are the 17 Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs), which are an urgent call for action by all countries - developed and developing - in a global partnership. Out of 17 SDGs, Good health and well-being, Clean water and sanitation, Affordable and clean energy, Industry, innovation and infrastructure, Sustainable cities and communities, Responsible consumption and production, Climate action, Life below water, Life on land require focus on greener aspects as the final outcome must be attained using the zero or minimum environmental impact, energy efficiency, benign chemicals (raw materials, solvents, and products) with economic feasibility.

For this, concepts of Green Chemistry and Green Engineering have to be imbibed in any process/product/system. In order to share the idea/work/ collaboration and ultimately to achieve the goal of sustainable development through greener route, a common platform is highly desirable.

The conference is one of the global events to share an insight into the latest developments in Green Chemistry and Engineering. The conference will bring together all the stakeholders from academia, research, industry, and society to exchange ideas in the following thrust areas:

- Process Intensification Techniques
- Sustainable approaches in Pharmaceutical and Chemical Industries
- Catalysis
- Novel Separation Methods
- Green Solvents
- Functional Foods and Nutraceuticals
- Green and Sustainable Chemistry in the Environment
- Green Nanotechnology
- Waste to Wealth
- Carbon Capture, Utilization and Storage (CCUS)
- Renewable Energy and Clean Energy
- Energy Storage
- Process Modelling and CFD
- Future Trends in Green Chemistry and Engineering
- Any other area relevant to the theme of the conference

Preconference Workshop: DoE with JMP

Design of Experiments (DOE) deals with planning, conducting the experiments, and then analyzing and interpreting the response to evaluate the factors' effect to control the value of a parameter or group of parameters. A strategically planned and executed experiment may provide a great deal of information about the effect on a response variable due to one or more factors. DOE simply helps to pinpoint the sensitive parts and sensitive areas in designs that impact the response variables. Designers are then able to fix these problems and produce robust and improved responses prior to going into production. Also, DOE is widely employed method across diverse industries such as chemical, biotechnology, mechanical/industrial, and pharmaceuticals, etc. In this workshop, lectures will be delivered on the basic principles of DoE, Various optimization methods (CCD, BBD, Mixture Design) and Modern and Computer-generated designs. Also, a hands-on exposure to JMP software will be given to enhance the learning covering the aspects of DOE. Primary objective of the workshop is to guide participants through the intricacies of experiment design, analysis, and optimization stages, ensuring a thorough and hands-on exploration of the DOE framework. At the end of the program, participants will emerge with a heightened proficiency in utilizing DOE methodologies and the JMP software, empowering them to make informed decisions and drive continuous improvement in their work environments.
